By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"Pussy cat, pussy cat, what saw you there?"
"I saw a little mouse under the chair."

John Perkins, of Congressional Cemetery, who blew out the gas in the old Tremont House in 1889, might be interested to know that it takes two shots of nitroglycerine to perform the same feat on the 200-foot jet at Sanford, Tex.

Now take Lindbergh, for instance—he's going to London to see the Queen, and the mouse under a chair for him will be the latest plane in the newest hangar.

Caesar's announcement that democracy and suffrage were buried would have shocked the Italians if they hadn't already attended the obsequies.

Marine captain is obliged to kill two at Managua in self-defense. No near-sighted person nowadays can tell war from an outbreak of peace.

Naval airplane is wrecked at Hampton Roads by a horse. Whoa! Pegagus. Back to the land, or we'll have to clip your wings.

We hope the Commissioners will reconsider the decision whereby in naming the reservation at Wisconsin and Nebraska avenues "Tenley Circle," they have once more perpetuated an historical error in the long-disputed orthography of this name, which in "Tenleytown" has improperly masqueraded as "Tennelytown," the proper and earlier spelling. The name first appears in the deed books on August 10, 1795, when John Weemes sold one-half acre in Mount Airy to Sarah Tenney, and after this family the original Tennelytown road was named, afterwards being confused with a later family, Theodore and Eliza Tenley, who settled at a subsequent date in the same neighborhood. If we are to have a "Tennely Circle," in Heaven's name let us stick to the facts. This matter was settled once by the Postoffice Department, back in 1886, but it doesn't seem to stay settled.

It is encouraging to know that in reviewing the fleet on June 3, President Coolidge will go to Hampton Roads instead of to the architects' office to look over the blueprints.

In these more democratic days one does not always have to do the journeying to see a Queen. Elizabeth of the Belgians climbs to the top floor of a Paris flat to pay her respects to the mother of Nungesser, and it does seem as though we could afford to send a ship to Newfoundland to search for this bold flier and his comrade in part payment for what the French have done for a countryman of ours.

John Bull gets a divorce from a temperamental Slavic lady in the brusque language of Lady Macbeth: "At once, good night; Stand not upon the order of your going, But go at once."

Egyptologists are investigating a mysterious liquid found in the tomb of Cheops, and if it should turn out as we hope, it'll be almost as old as the genuine pre-war stuff the boot-legger peddles.

Secretary Jim Davis says that if it were not for holding down his Cabinet job he'd be back working as a puddler in the steel mills. And all the Marines in Nicaragua!

Cumberland lady with a rifle solves the problem of what to do when the landlord comes for the rent.

The hand of time turns back the scroll of history, and as Gov. Byrd cuts the ribbons and opens the Richmond to Washington Highway, we shall close our eyes and see Lorenzo Dow, at Accotink, on his way to carry the Gospel to the wilderness in the South; Randolph, of Roanoke, on his bedraggled mare, swimming Occoquan Creek, on his way to his seat in the Senate; Washington, crossing the Potomac by the Georgetown ferry; the armies that saved the Union, streaming over the old Long Bridge, and through the Stafford mud to the Wilderness. On to Richmond—and step on the gas!

Secretary Wilbur, anent Lindbergh's great feat, which still has Paris nutty, gives the Navy on assist, and he might have added that the spirit of competition it exemplifies clinches the argument against a unified air service.

Miss Dorothy Carlson, with pretty hazel eyes, a striking figure and well-rounded arms, as the faithful reporter, and doubtless the observant judges noted, comes out of the record-breaking West to cap the national oratorical prize.
"Say she be mute and will not speak a word;
Then I'll commend her volubility,
And say she uttereth piercing eloquence."

BRITISH-SOVIET WAR ONLY COURSE OPEN, SAYS LIBERAL HEAD

What Madness! Exclaims Lloyd George; Break Is Deplored.

COMMUNISTS FOUGHT BY FRENCH OFFICIALS

Russians Given Ten Days to Leave London, in Note by Chamberlain.

Margate, Kent, England, May 27 (By A. P.).—Former Premier David Lloyd George, addressing a Liberal demonstration here tonight, expressed great regret for the break in Anglo-Russian relations.

"Having broken relations," he exclaimed, "what's left? There is only one thing left, that is the thunderbolt of war. What folly? What madness?" Referring to rumors that the trade union bill and the break with Russia meant the dissolution of Parliament and a general election, Lloyd George said that he doubted whether even Premier Baldwin knows in advance what he is going to do.

The former premier bewailed the failure to pass the Irish home rule bill when it first was introduced, because, he said, had home rule been on the state books in 1914, "we shouldn't have had the great war, for it was owing to the quarrelling at home and the threat of civil war that the German star arrived at the decision that Britain was out of the reckoning."

Russians Notified to Leave. London, May 27 (By A. P.).—Great Britain's six-year experiment in trying to live in ordinary peaceful international relations with Soviet Russia came to an end today.

A note signed by Foreign Minister Chamberlain was delivered this morning to Chesham House, the Soviet Legation, severing official relations between the two countries and requesting Soviet Charge d'Affaires Rosenfeld to leave the country with his staff inside ten days. Anglo-Soviet relations thus revert to the position prior to 1921, when the trade agreement which was terminated today was signed.

The British note delivered today is the last of a long series of diplomatic protests made by successive British governments against anti-British propaganda, alleged to be carried on by the Soviets in all parts of the world.

Goes Straight to the Point. The note is couched in the usual polite language of diplomacy, but goes straight to the point. It requires the withdrawal of all official Russian representatives from Great Britain within ten days, but does not seek to interfere with the ordinary course of Anglo-Russian trade or "the legitimate commercial operations of Argos, Ltd.," the Russian trade organization in London, which concern even will be allowed to employ certain specified Russian assistants.

The British public does not appear to be greatly concerned over the severance of relations with the Soviet Government. Most of the concern is expressed in commercial and financial quarters, where there is much curiosity over the extent to which the Soviets will carry out their threat to divert the trade hitherto given Great Britain to other countries.

Except in labor circles, it is agreed almost everywhere that the government's action was fully justified in the proved subversive operations of Soviet agents, but the Liberal press and public raise the question of whether the course adopted was advisable or ad.

John Drew, Actor, Ill, Forced to Quit Cast

Portland, Oreg., May 27 (By A. P.).—John Drew, actor, was ordered by his physicians to abandon a theatrical engagement here last night as the result of an attack of illness.

He is being rushed to San Francisco under the care of a physician for treatment. His illness was diagnosed as arthritis. Drew, noted veteran of the stage, now in his 74th year, was suffering from what members of the company described as rheumatism. They did not consider his condition serious, but said pain caused him to limp, making acting difficult. He has been appearing as Sir William Gower in an all-star cast of a revival of Pinero's "Treasure of the Wells."

Probation Is Asked By 5 in Kerrick Case

Los Angeles, May 27 (By A. P.).—Sentencing of Mrs. Sarah Kerrick and four others under manslaughter convictions for the killing of Tom Kerrick, film cowboy, April 9, was deferred in Superior Court today after Judge Elliott Craig denied a motion for a new trial. He gave permission to the defendants to file application for probation returnable June 14.

The district attorney's office has indicated that it would not oppose application for probation. All five were convicted under the California law making all members of a group assembled for an unlawful act responsible if a slaying occurs.

SLAYS GENERAL

DESPONDENT POLICEMAN SHOOTS HIMSELF IN BED

GRIEVED FOR DEAD WIFE

While his brother was on his way to his bedside to cheer him, Police Sergt. Edward S. Allen, of the Seventh Police Precinct, shot himself through his left breast with his police pistol at 6:05 o'clock last night while he lay in his bed at his home at 1022 Twenty-sixth street northwest.

Sergt. Allen was appointed to the police force more than 25 years ago, and had been on leave for the last four days. Yesterday he remained in bed all day, telling his niece, Mrs. Eleanor Garrett, with whom he made his home, that he felt bad and was despondent. Mrs. Garrett went to the corner telephone Sergt. Allen's brother, Lieut. J. W. Allen, of No. 13 Engine Company, because of her alarm over the police sergeant's despondent remarks. A few minutes after she returned home she heard a pistol shot and, running to the second floor with Lucy Scyphus, a maid, found Sergt. Allen lying on his bed with a bullet hole in his left breast. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where it was said his condition is grave. Brother policemen said Sergt. Allen has been increasingly despondent since the death of his wife three years ago.

6 KILLED, 127 ESCAPE AFTER MINE BLAST

Trinidad, Colo., May 27 (By A. P.).—Six men were killed at the Delagua mine 12 miles from here today when an explosion which occurred in No. 3 shaft badly wrecked the opening of the mine and broke windows out of nearby buildings.

One hundred and twenty-seven other miners at work escaped through an airshaft at the other end of the mine. The mine is owned by the Victor-American Fuel Co. The dead were George Cass, Charles Deluca, August Cartagno, William Conway, Lloyd Martinez and John Dolores. The explosion is believed to have been caused by ignited coal dust. The bodies of the five men were brought out last today.

The 127 miners who escaped through an airshaft were working in another part of the mine and did not hear the explosion. They knew nothing of what happened until they were told by their foremen to go out through the shaft.

Miami Is Blanketed By Everglades Smoke

Miami, Fla., May 27 (By A. P.).—Hope for rain, the only effective curb to Everglades fires north and west to "Miami," which during the last ten days have burned over an estimated area of 250 square miles, went glimmering to top with announcement from the Miami weather bureau that prospects for even a local shower were unfavorable.

A light shower that fell yesterday afternoon brought great clouds of steam from the Everglades but did not slow the progress of the fires westward.

NICARAGUAN WOMAN AND GENERAL SLAIN BY MARINE CAPTAIN

W. P. Richards, With U. S. Force, Was Attacked, It Is Asserted.

60 KILLINGS CHARGED TO CABULLA, VICTIM

"Liberal Bandit" Mistreated Natives, It Is Said; American Then Protested.

Managua, Nicaragua, May 27 (By A. P.).—Attacked with a machete in the hands of a woman while remonstrating with the bandit chieftain, Cabulla, early today, Capt. William P. Richards, of the United States Marine Corps, shot and killed Cabulla, who had drawn a revolver, and then was forced to kill the woman in self-defense, say advisers received here from Chinandega.

Called a "Pancheo Villa." Capt. Richards had gone to a house in which Cabulla was staying to remonstrate against the maltreatment of several inhabitants by the bandit leader. As Richards entered the door he was attacked by a woman in the house with a machete, while Cabulla leaped from his bed and drew a revolver. Capt. Richards thereupon drew his own weapon and fired, killing Cabulla instantly and was forced to kill the woman in self-defense.

Cabulla, who was described as a "Liberal bandit," was called the Pancho Villa of Nicaragua, and had been credited with 60 killings. He virtually controlled a large part of the northwestern frontier section of the country. The advisers received here said he rode into the small town of Elviego yesterday in an intoxicated condition. The report said he intimidated and maltreated several peaceful inhabitants.

A complaint was thereupon made to Capt. Richards, commanding a small marine detachment in the town. The captain went to the house in which Cabulla had gone to inform him that such actions would not be tolerated. Chinandega, Nicaragua, May 27 (By A. P.).—Capt. William P. Richards, of the United States Marine Corps, shot and killed the Liberal general, Cabulla, here early this morning, allegedly in self-defense.

Gen. Cabulla is declared to have been intoxicated and firing with revolver at people in the street when Capt. Richards returned fire, killing him.

Navy Plane Wrecked When It Hits Horse

A horse wrecked an airplane piloted by Lieut. G. A. Hasselman, U. S. N., which collided with the animal at Hampton Roads Naval Air Station Field, Va., yesterday.

A dispatch to the Navy Department stated the pilot was unhurt and that the plane would require a major overhauling. The horse was decapitated.

Fanatical Uprisings in Philippines Gain

Manila, May 27 (By A. P.).—Various authorities are seeking the possible cause of numerous fanatical uprisings in the Philippines lately.

The latest movement was in Manila, where the police found a man styling himself the "Holy Ghost." They found he had a following of 500 to 1,000 natives who believed him a divine healer and performer of miracles.

The constabulary has been advised of the existence of numerous Collum lodges or semi-fraternal and religious bodies which are suspected by the officers of having political motives.

ORATORY CONTEST, SEVEN COMPETING, WON BY LONE GIRL

Miss Carlson, Utah, Gets Decision by 5 Judges of Supreme Court.

SAYS CONSTITUTION MAKES VOTING DUTY

Honorable Mention for 2 Boys. Last Year's Winner, Guest, Makes an Address.

Miss Dorothy Carlson, of Salt Lake City, who pretty hazel eyes followed her words out into the audience, last night won the national oratorical contest. She becomes this country's entrant in the international contest to be held here October 14. James M. Tunnell, Jr., of Georgetown, Del., short of stature and with shock brown hair, was second, and Jefferson Meagher, of Binghamton, N. Y., tall and a striking brunette, was third.

The winner was the last to speak, and as she did so the masculine aspirants must have seen their chances going a glimmering. Slender of stature, and with light brown hair, and with grace and poise, her delivery was by turns one of argument, pleading, narrative and beseeching. There was nothing oratorical about her appearance. She is not the public's conception of a studious girl. Rather, she had a way about her, as the women of the more than 5,000 in the audience would say, she wore gave her figure striking effect, and it was so fashioned as to show her well rounded arms to advantage. She could easily be pictured as leading her fellow women into a picketing of the White House or something, not by harangue but by convincing talk.

Her Words Ring Sweetly. She, as did the other contestants, flung three and four syllable words up into the far reaches of Washington Auditorium with the ease and finesse with which she might carve a rose. Only she had a way of following each musical syllable with her eyes. This would make her pretty head this way and speak a word and then turn the other way and speak one. There seemed to be no fervor behind these words, yet they rang sweetly in one's ears.

As was the case last year the "Constitution" was the theme, and the seven young orators took that time-honored document, the original of which reposes in a glass case in Congressional Library, figuratively to pieces. The winner's subject was "What the Constitution Should Mean to an American Citizen." Among other things, Miss Carlson said it should mean enough for everybody to vote.

Herbert Wenig, of California, winner of last year's international contest, was a guest. He has come right along in his oratorical pursuits. He has advanced to that stage where everybody to vote.

Masaryk Is Relected President at Prague

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 27 (By A. P.).—Prof. Thomas G. Masaryk was reelected president of the Czechoslovak republic today on the first ballot.

Los Angeles Aqueduct Siphon Is Dynamited

Los Angeles, May 27 (By A. P.).—A section of the steel siphon of the Los Angeles Aqueduct, which supplies water to the metropolitan area here, was damaged early today by an explosion, believed to have been of dynamite, in No. Name Canyon, about 200 miles north of Los Angeles, in Owens Valley.

The explosion, the third to damage the long water course since its construction about fifteen years ago, occurred about 20 miles from Haiwee Reservoir. Reports said a section 300 feet long in the 9-foot siphon was torn away.

130 Miles in an Hour Is New Auto Record

Paris, May 27 (By A. P.).—A new world's record for distance covered by automobile in one hour was made today by the French racing driver, Marchand, who was announced.

Driving over the Montlhéry speedway, Marchand covered 306 kilometers 558 meters (about 190 miles) in 60 minutes. The previous record is listed at 203 kilometers 725 meters.

MARSHAL FOCH GREETES LINDBERGH

Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the allies during the World War, made a special trip to Paris from southern France to see young aviator. The photograph was sent to London by airplane, from where it was radioed to New York.

MRS. HORACE E. DODGE WINS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Decree Given at Surprise Hearing; Husband Called Too Fond of Boats.

LEFT ALONE, WIFE SAYS WAS DRUGGED, HE STATES

Detroit, Mich., May 27 (By A. P.).—A divorce decree was granted to Mrs. Lois Knowlson Dodge from Horace E. Dodge late today in a surprise hearing before Judge Vincent M. Brennan in circuit court. The divorce will become final next week when a formal decree is entered by Judge Brennan. Dodge did not appear at the hearing, but was represented by his attorney, Charles P. Wright, Jr.

A recommendation of Edward Pokorny, a friend of the court, that Mrs. Dodge receive custody of the two children, Delphine Ione, 5, and Horace E. 3d, who are ill in Los Angeles, was met by Mrs. Dodge with a statement to the court that she and Dodge had agreed that each would have the children six months of the year.

Mrs. Dodge, who appeared pale and tired, took the witness stand and explained charges of cruelty against Dodge. She listed his interest in boats as one of her complaints. Although the case was not docketed, Judge Brennan agreed to hear the testimony from Mrs. Dodge expressed a desire to return to her children in Los Angeles. She explained to the judge

Miss Dorrance, who is 19, took a position last fall at 31 cents an hour in her father's plant "to obtain practical experience." She said she would pump the time clock the same as other employees. A short time later her father selected her to go to Europe to gather data on trade expansion. She is at present in Paris with her parents. They will sail tomorrow for New York.

Mr. Hill is a graduate of Harvard and a member of the Knickerbocker and Raquet Clubs, New York.

Coolidge to Review Navy Fleet on June 4

President Coolidge has decided definitely to review the fleet off Hampton Roads June 4.

It is the intention of Mr. Coolidge to leave Friday night, June 3, aboard the Mayflower, the Presidential yacht, sailing down the Potomac River to the reviewing grounds. He will return, according to present plans, the same way.

LINDBERGH, IN DAWN FLIGHT, SAILS OVER SLUMBERING PARIS

Dips Low, in Honor of the Unknown Soldier, and Loops and Circles.

AMERICAN WILL FLY TO BRUSSELS TODAY

Painleve Is Luncheon Host. Coolidge's Offer of Warship Accepted.

Detroit, May 27 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh announced tonight that her son, Capt. Charles Lindbergh, transatlantic flier, has accepted President Coolidge's invitation to return home on a warship and would sail for home on or about June 16. He so informed her by cable, she said.

Paris, May 27 (By A. P.).—Capt. Charles Lindbergh, still scheduled for more triumphs, tonight was closing the greatest week of hero worship that any young man of his age ever has experienced.

Tomorrow the young American aviator, who left New York last Friday and arrived in Paris on Saturday night, will leave the French capital, after having received such adulation as almost to defy comparison.

Heaped with all the honors that the French people and their government could bestow on him, the slim son of the Middle West will climb into his historic monoplane to fly to Brussels, where another really royal welcome has been prepared by King Albert of Belgium and his people.

Capt. Lindbergh will leave the soil of France a little after noon, from the field at Le Bourget, on which he brought The Spirit of St. Louis to rest last Saturday night at the end of his triumphant nonstop flight from New York. And he is leaving Paris in as great a blaze of glory as he entered it.

Today, the last full day of his present stay in France, Capt. Lindbergh was out of bed before dawn, and from then until midnight tonight his every movement was watched.

At Field by Dawn: In the morning, for the first time since his arrival, he had a few hours to himself, and enjoyed a sort of aerial human holiday. Before dawn he was on his way to the flying field at Le Bourget, where a party of French flying officers awaited him with one of their fastest scout planes. Spurring suggestions as to how to pilot it, Capt. Lindbergh hopped into the tiny cockpit and was off to enjoy himself in his own way while all Paris slept.

Free from the maddening crowd, silk hats, handshakes and the high oratory of officials, the young American flier who had only meant to come to "hope alone in his monoplane and then take a tourist's holiday, was by himself again in his element—the air.

Alone in the fast "le" airplane, he started through the dawn straight for Paris. Flying high, with only one escort plane behind and nobody to bother him, he arrived over the Arc de Triomphe and there swept down out of the morning haze to an altitude of a few hundred feet. He circled about the spot. It was his salute to the city of the unknown Soldier. He had fulfilled his dream of seeing Paris from the air by daylight.

Over the embassy building, where he has been a guest in this past week of delicious days, the young Missourian did a stunt or two and then struck out on a beeline back to the Le Bourget field.

Faint SOS Message Halts Broadcasting

New York, May 27 (By A. P.).—Radio broadcasting along virtually the entire Atlantic seaboard was shut down about 11 o'clock tonight as a result of an SOS call. The signal was described as incomplete and efforts to locate the point of origin were for some time unsuccessful.

After efforts of nearly half an hour to locate the source of the call, Naval communications ordered broadcasting in this area resumed. The call was heard by the Independent Wireless Company and Naval communications, but it faded out.

MANY NOW FLEEING ON SAVING LIVES FACE GREAT PERIL

Refugees Had Erected Rude
Dwellings, Confident of Safety on Banks.

NEW IBERIA IS INVADED BY SWEEPING TORRENT

Des Glaises Water Has Advanced More Than 100 Miles
Toward the Gulf.

New Orleans, May 27 (By A. P.).—New flood ravages appeared along both extremes of the Atchafalaya River today.

Waters sweeping through a crevasse at McCreas drove hundreds from their homes as backwater welled up into the northern tip of Pointe Coupee Parish.

Along Bayou Teche, near the southern extremity of the same river, torrents from that stream were joining backwaters to flood the streets of New Iberia and threaten the town of Lake Charles. While some residents made themselves ready to withstand the watery siege, other hundreds deserted their homes for refuge camps.

The McCreas crevasse, on the east side of the Atchafalaya River, is approximately 130 miles northwest of New Orleans and on the opposite side of the Mississippi River. The break in the levee there already has widened to 2,000 feet and more than 20 square miles of fertile cropland have been covered by the stream pouring into Pointe Coupee Parish.

Moving Toward the Gulf.

The flood moving into New Iberia is a part of the huge volume of water which already has covered the bayous, St. Landry, St. Martin and a good portion of Iberia parishes on its move toward the Gulf of Mexico down the west side of the Atchafalaya basin since the breaks along Bayou des Glaises, more than a hundred miles above New Iberia, reversed the inland lake, which covered thirteen northern Louisiana parishes.

A portion of the water swept over rights along the eastern boundary of the Atchafalaya Basin to swell Bayou Teche to such proportions it left its banks. Backwaters from Grand Lake and other bodies of water in the vicinity of New Iberia moved forward to meet the Teche, and the town is being covered by waters moving in from two directions.

Many of the inhabitants already had moved out of New Iberia into concentration camps established nearby, but several hundred were taking up quarters in high school buildings, planning to remain near their homes until the waters recede.

Food Supplies Provided.

Arrangements already had been made to keep them supplied with food. In the upper East Atchafalaya Basin, in Pointe Noyes Parish, many persons, even with the waters around their homes, still cling to the belief that the flood would not invade the houses and decline to accept proffered transportation to refuge camps.

Others, retaining their confidence in levees, which had crumbled to ruin, fled to them for refuge, and fear was expressed for their safety. Rude, temporary residences were constructed on the levees of timber, which had been used for revetment work during the fight to keep the flood out of Pointe Coupee Parish.

Along a stretch of levee above the McCreas break, scores had erected temporary dwellings places. Above them the levees caved in and the Atchafalaya threatened to strike through the embankments to leave them marooned on a narrow strip of levee with a fast current, saving them from the flood.

Eager to Return Home.

In refuge camps rumors that waters were receding made many of the flood victims impatient to return to their homes.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover said another menace lay in the possibility that disease might break out among the thousands of Acadians in concentration camps throughout Louisiana. He ordered the encampments rearranged after the fashion of army cantonments and a reallocation of refugees to meet the danger.

Water continued to fall in the Tensas Basin as it drained through the crevasses into the lower Atchafalaya basin. At St. Martinville in the lower Atchafalaya basin, the water was 6 feet deep above railroad embankments, and many of the town boats was 32 feet above the mean gulf level.

As the flood drained from the upper Tensas, the waters rose in the lower Atchafalaya Basin. At St. Martinville in the lower Atchafalaya basin, the water was 6 feet deep above railroad embankments, and many of the town boats was 32 feet above the mean gulf level.

Morgan City, at the mouth of the Atchafalaya, was beginning to feel the flood and in some parts of the town boats were being operated.

An indication that danger along the lower Mississippi might be averted came into the partial demobilization of the national guard. The levee patrol between Kenner and New Orleans ceased. Some of the companies were sent to refuge camps and others were demobilized.

The weather bureau at New Orleans did not regard as menacing the new flood which has arisen in southern Illinois since the waters will reach the lower valley in the near future. High waters have receded. A flood so far up the river will have little effect on the main stream.

Wilkins Hop-Off Postponed.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 27 (By A. P.).—Capt. George H. Wilkins scheduled hop-off yesterday for Point Barrow was postponed when the plane refused to rise off the ground with an 1,800-pound load. He hoped to hop off today from Point Barrow where the explorer plans to fly across the Arctic to Grants Land, on Greenland.

UTAH GIRL PROVES BEST ORATOR

ic speakers are "called upon unexpectedly," she said. "I was called upon to make a declaration. John Hays Hammond, who presided, called on him to say a few words, and after explaining regard like that, he launched into fervid oration on the worth of the oratorical contest."

The four contestants aside from the three winners were Carl Albert, of McCreas, Okla.; William Alexander Loker, of Leonardtown, Md.; Delia Crawford, of Oak Park, Ill.; and Maxwell Lancaster, of Birmingham, Ala.

Five justices of the United States Supreme Court—Van Devanter, Sutherland, Sanford, Butler and Stone—were judges, and Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, Rear Admiral Luther E. Gregory and Rear Admiral Richard Henry Leigh, were the timekeepers. The Marine Band, under the direction of Arthur A. Witcomb, conducted, played.

Miss Carlson was presented with a basket of flowers at the conclusion of her declamation, and when the judge announced her to be the winner she uttered a decidedly feminine "yeees."

Water continued to fall in the Tensas Basin as it drained through the crevasses into the lower Atchafalaya basin. At St. Martinville in the lower Atchafalaya basin, the water was 6 feet deep above railroad embankments, and many of the town boats was 32 feet above the mean gulf level.

Morgan City, at the mouth of the Atchafalaya, was beginning to feel the flood and in some parts of the town boats were being operated.

An indication that danger along the lower Mississippi might be averted came into the partial demobilization of the national guard. The levee patrol between Kenner and New Orleans ceased. Some of the companies were sent to refuge camps and others were demobilized.

The weather bureau at New Orleans did not regard as menacing the new flood which has arisen in southern Illinois since the waters will reach the lower valley in the near future. High waters have receded. A flood so far up the river will have little effect on the main stream.

Wilkins Hop-Off Postponed.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 27 (By A. P.).—Capt. George H. Wilkins scheduled hop-off yesterday for Point Barrow was postponed when the plane refused to rise off the ground with an 1,800-pound load. He hoped to hop off today from Point Barrow where the explorer plans to fly across the Arctic to Grants Land, on Greenland.

ZIEGFELD DENIES HE LACKS REAL ASSETS

COURT RESERVES RULING

Special to The Washington Post.
White Plains, N. Y., May 27.—Allegations that Ziegfeld, theatrical producer, has no tangible assets to meet his liabilities; that for two years he has permitted his notes to go to protest, and that he lost $100,000 gambling in Florida last year were contained in the affidavit of Edward Royce, stage director, who has brought suit for 1 per cent of the gross receipts of the production, "Rio Rita." He declares Ziegfeld owes $200,000. The affidavit was read in Supreme Court here today.

Royce, through his attorney, David Newburger, asked Justice Seeger for an order compelling Ziegfeld to deposit 1 per cent of the gross receipts of the production with a bank or a receiver to be named by the court, pending decision in the suit. Justice Seeger reserved decision.

Ziegfeld, through counsel, denied all Royce's allegations and asked Justice Seeger to strike out the affidavit of Royce on the ground it contains "scandalous, scandalous, libelous and grossly untrue falsehoods." He particularly denied the gambling charge.

Decision on that motion was reserved by Justice Seeger. He said in an affidavit that he owns numerous pieces of real estate, and that he receives $50,000 annually from motion picture rights for his stage productions.

The "Rio Rita" company was named as a defendant by Royce, who seeks to compel Ziegfeld to carry out the terms of the suit. Ziegfeld, he said, was signed December 2, 1926, under which he was to receive $1,000 a week at least five weeks, while the production was running. Ziegfeld charged that Royce, instead of being discharged from his duties in connection with "Rio Rita," had left voluntarily. He asserted Royce, at a performance in Boston, had admitted being a "has-been" unable to stage modern American dances.

He charged the stage director had drunk large quantities of liquor and had been shown in the act of being hit by the police. He said he had been absent from home without explanation was given by Mrs. Edith Donovan, of Grose Pointe.

The Dodgers were married June 1, 1921. The date of their separation was today by Mrs. Dodge as in October, 1926, when she declared her husband left her and the children and moved to an apartment.

A property settlement of January 5, 1927, was submitted to Judge Brennan, but was not made a part of the record.

Southerners Lose
In Chinese Battle

Shanghai, May 27 (By A. P.).—The greatest test to which the Nationalist military power has yet been put is occurring on the plains of Honan Province, where the biggest battle the southerners ever fought began yesterday. A late wireless report from Hankow says the southerners have suffered a reverse with heavy casualties. The Eighth army being virtually wiped out.

Mummy of His Mother, Queen
Hetepheres, However, Is Not Found.

Cairo, Egypt, May 27 (By A. P.).—Dr. George A. Reisner, Harvard Egyptologist, yesterday opened the masonry-lined tomb of the Queen Hetepheres, mother of Cheops, which he hoped would be there.

The mummy of the queen was found in a sarcophagus containing organic matter, which, in two of the compartments, was covered with a clear yellowish liquid. The organic matter is supposed to be from the body of the queen, removed prior to mummification.

Main interest in the discovery centers in the liquid, still in a fluid state after thousands of years. It is being analyzed.

63 More Gallons Fuel
In Lindbergh's Plane

Paris, May 27 (By A. P.).—An undecoded tank of gasoline on the Spirit of St. Louis carried an extra supply of 63 gallons, and Capt. Lindbergh could have circled Paris and gone on to Warsaw, Poland, Aer Club officials found today.

The official check gave only an hour and a half of fuel left, but the tank they found today gave a total of 63 gallons remaining, sufficient for another six hours.

Belgian King Will Decorate Lindbergh

Brussels, Belgium, May 27 (By A. P.).—Capt. Lindbergh will be decorated with the Order of Leopold when he is received at the palace tomorrow by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth after his flight here from Paris. It was officially announced here today.

Lindbergh will be met at the landing field by Premier Jaspar and James Dunn, American charge d'affaires.

MRS. RUTH SNYDER'S
APPEAL NOTICE FILED

Gray to Take Same Action;
No Date for Hearing

New York, May 27 (By A. P.).—The formal appeal of Mrs. Ruth Snyder from the sentence of death imposed upon her and Henry J. Gray for the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, was filed in the county clerk's office at Long Island City today.

The appeal was taken by the court, which automatically would stay the sentence.

Today's action had no significance other than placing the appeal on record. Gray's counsel filed a similar notice at the time he was sentenced, but the document has not yet been formally recorded.

No date has been set for a hearing on either of the appeals.

Will Rogers' Visions President on Chair Kissing Ocean Flier

Special to The Washington Post.
Bluefield, W. Va., May 27.—So many prominent Frenchmen have been kissing Lindbergh on both cheeks that it will be worth seeing when he meets Cal. It is Colledge and Jimmy Walker who will have to stand on a stool.

I hate to keep dingling on it, but we still have six hundred thousand of our own whose homes are now floating toward Nicaragua. We can't seem to get the government interested in them financially. I wish you would send some checks to the Red Cross of New Orleans. I am going there next Wednesday night to give a benefit and it already has more money assured than any one given in any part of the country. Why? Because they are right there and they know the needs of the people.

If six hundred thousand people had lost their all and were being fed by charity in the East, they would raise fifty million in a day.

Come on, let's help them even if they are not Armenians. They can't help it because of their nationality. I will tell you about it when I get down there. Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Is Expression of Feeling Toward America.

Paris, May 27 (By A. P.).—Formal thanks to the French people for the glorious welcome they have given him was contained in a little statement Capt. Charles Lindbergh gave out tonight for publication, particularly in the French newspapers. The statement was as follows:

"I leave France with my ship, the Spirit of St. Louis, and I thank you for the welcome that you have given me. I have known that you would find friends, but little dreaming how great would be the welcome that we have received. I am sure that you will tell everyone that I shall never forget the kindness that has been shown me, and I beg a favor of the French people. Let them know that I am a Frenchman's friend, and that I am a Frenchman's friend."

"All the kindness the French people have shown me and the many honors that they have bestowed upon me, I have been a leader in the development of aviation and I feel that I am a Frenchman's friend, and that I am a Frenchman's friend."

COOLIDGE LARGES FLYING CROSS FOR LINDBERGH

48 Governors Would Be Invited to the Proposed Reception Here.

FLIER CABLES NAVY MEN

President Coolidge yesterday made known his approval of the plan to award Capt. Charles Lindbergh the distinguished flying cross.

The cross is to be but one of the honors which the government is to confer on the sensational aviator. Possible honors have been discussed in the White House since the flight of the Spirit of St. Louis.

The distinguished flying cross can be awarded without special legislation, but Congress will have to act to present the Congressional Medal of Honor and both the President and Secretary Davis made it known they will approve such an award if Congress proposes it.

The governors of the 48 States will be invited to attend the national reception which will be given at the White House. Capt. Lindbergh should accept the invitation of the District Commissioners to come here on his return from Europe.

No reply was received yesterday to the commissioners' cable invitation, but Capt. Lindbergh did cable Admiral W. J. Ells, chief of naval operations, his acknowledgment "with warm thanks the Navy Department's hearty congratulations." To Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Capt. Lindbergh added that the bureau's congratulations "add greatly to the satisfaction of my success."

King Albert of Belgium yesterday cabled President Coolidge his congratulations on Lindbergh's feat. "Warmest congratulations for incomparable achievement of your heroic fellow countryman Lindbergh," the king's message read.

him wore ordinary street clothes instead of formal garb. High army officers with military hats at their heads, came in their military hats with medals gleaming from their chests. The marshal wore the fescue of all—the distinguished aviator's uniform—and two or three others. Gen. Fersching was in civilian clothes—a cutaway.

From this luncheon, the last of many that the French government gave him, Capt. Lindbergh went to the senate to hear his glories extolled anew. After that he made a hurried visit to the historic fair of St. Germain, and from there to an automobile plant and then still on to the flier's "nest," in the Bois de Boulogne, which is provided with the International League of Nations for the fliers of all nationalities.

His last full day in Paris was done—but the night remained. There were still more appearances to be made, and he was to be seen at the American embassy, where he had his usual evening conference with newspaper men. He told them his plans for the future, and that he would be in London, he expects to fly there from Brussels on Sunday, and after that his activities will be in the hands of the American Ambassador to England, Alanson B. Houghton.

"Paris Like Any City."

He spoke but little of his morning flight over Paris. It looked like "any other city," he said, although it "is not as big as New York."

After this talk, Capt. Lindbergh dressed for the evening and ate his dinner in the privacy of the embassy.

He hurried away to a theater where a benefit performance was given for the families of aviators who gave their lives to the progress of man's conquest of the air.

LIFE UNBEARABLE FOR MAN WITH SORE ITCHING HANDS

Healed at last easily and quickly

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 28.—"For months all my fingers on both hands were covered with red, itching sores. They frequently gave out a watery fluid, and that, together with the terrible itching, made life almost unbearable. As my business necessitated having my hands in water a great deal, the suffering was made even worse. Doctors diagnosed my case as chronic eczema, but none of the prescribed salves helped me. Finally I began to use Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. Now, after using two jars of this Ointment I am glad to say I am rid of my skin trouble and my hands are perfectly clear."—(Signed) J. BREAK OF BRITISH WITH SOVIET HAS NO EFFECT ON AMERICA

Trade With Russia Allowed on Merchants' Responsibility,
White House Explains.

GOVERNMENT'S POLICY
IS HELD VINDICATED

Great Britain Now Will Follow
Course Similar to That Pursued Here.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Coolidge does not expect America's relations with Soviet Russia to be affected by the diplomatic break between the British and Russian governments. The President, it was explained, naturally takes the position that any formal comment by him on the break would be out of place. But an authoritative explanation of America's position was obtained at the White House yesterday afternoon.

It was pointed out on behalf of the President that American citizens have all along been free to carry on trade with the Soviet government or with Russian nationals, provided they are willing to do so on their own responsibility. This means that Americans carrying on such trade could not expect to enlist the services or support of their government in case of difficulties arising out of this trade. But the United States Government makes a practice of refraining from interference in trade matters carried on by private citizens in times of peace, and, furthermore, there is no legal method whereby the government could exercise a censorship over private trade, even if it desired to do so.

U. S. Has Not Recognized Soviet.

As the United States Government has never recognized the Soviet government there are no political questions involved in the relationship between the two countries, and, therefore, it is pointed out, no reason for any contemplated change in America's political policy because of the British-Soviet severance of political relations.

President Coolidge has heard nothing about any of the documents seized by the British in their London raid. The American Embassy in London transmitted to the State Department here some days ago the gist of the data gathered by Scotland Yard from Arcos, Limited, the Russian trade organization. These dispatches are said to have reached here in a somewhat garbled form. There was nothing, however, contained in the dispatches which Secretary Kellogg thought necessary to communicate to the President.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, who has been an advocate of recognition of Russia, declined yesterday to comment on the London raid. The understanding is that Mr. Borah wishes to await full details and to read the debates in the House of Commons on Thursday, before making any statement.

U. S. Not Committed by Robinson

The effect which the break will have on the Geneva economic conference is being considered here, although the United States Government will not establish any political contacts with the Russians at Geneva despite the fact that both sides have delegates there. In connection with recent reports from Geneva, via Moscow, that the Russian delegates were negotiating with Henry M. Robinson, of California, who is head of the American delegation and president of the Union Oil Associates and director of the Union Oil Co., Secretary Kellogg made it clear that nothing done by Mr. Robinson in connection with such negotiations could bind the United States.

The fact that the Standard Oil Co. has begun to obtain concessions from the Soviet government has admittedly precipitated a drive by interests affiliated with this company to pave the way for recognition of Russia and some of the most powerful interests connected with Standard Oil have written to Senator Borah in support of the recognition plan.

The United States government, however, has given no indication of any prospective change of policy and the action of Great Britain in severing diplomatic relations with the Soviet is generally regarded in official circles as a vindication of the American government's policy. The British, under the plan now proposed, will continue to permit trade with Russia but will go away with political contacts, thereby making the British policy virtually conform to the policy which has been adopted by the Government of the United States.

advantageous, since, it is argued, it will fail to prevent the continuance of anti-British propaganda abroad.

Paris, May 27 (By A. P.).—The French government served notice today that it is prepared to oppose with all its power the communistic influences within France. Premier Poincaré even said he was ready to make it a question of confidence. At the same time, through the premier and Foreign Minister Briand indicated that there is no question at present of breaking with Soviet Russia, in sympathy with the action taken today by Great Britain.

The chamber supported the government's viewpoint, and the interpellation sought by Leon Blum, Socialist Minister of the Interior Sarraut in defense of his recent address warning the Reds that they had gone too far. M. Sarraut said today that he had plenty of proof that the Communists were trying to poison the army and navy, although he had nothing sensational to reveal.

War Plans Changed by Moscow.

Moscow, May 27 (By A. P.).—The conviction obtaining in all Soviet political circles and widely disseminated through the press is that Great Britain is embarked upon a war of intervention, of which severance of relations with the Soviet Union is the first gun. The next step is expected to be, the papers say, an effort toward a financial and economic blockade calculated to weaken the Soviet Union to such an extent that it can be attacked with impunity.

Investia, organ of the federal central executive committee of the Soviets, declares England's hope of inciting other nations against Russia can only end in disaster for England and her allies, since the Soviet, during the three years in which the repressive program was being prepared, has gained a strength which today enables her to defy her enemies.

"Provocative Ads" Alleged.

Pravda, organ of the central executive committee of the Communist party, terms sanction of the break of relations by the British House of Commons as "the last act in the series of provocative acts."

"At a time when the English masses are being surfeited with white papers and all sorts of criminal detective tales," it adds, "England stands revealed as the most dangerous enemy of European peace."

Parliamentary approval of the British cabinet's decision to break relations caused little surprise, the action being regarded as a foregone conclusion. Rabotshaya Moskva, organ of the Moscow Soviet and the Moscow committee of the Communist party, says: "It is until now England has shunned a conflict with her three enemies, the Soviet Union, the English workers and the oppressed classes of the Far East. The impression prevails now, with lessened preparedness on the part of the English proletariat and the defection of Chiang Kai-Shek (from the Hankow Nationalists in China) that it is safe to proceed against the Soviets with assurances of a protected flank and rear."

The Rabochy Gazette says "the first of English conservatism will be smashed against the Soviet too."

Manager Polyakoff (George Platikoff), of the Amtorg, Soviet-American commercial organization, said today

Tokyo, May 27 (By A. P.).—Dispatches from Harbin to the vernacular newspapers say the Soviet military commissar has ordered the mobilization of troops along the Far Eastern frontiers, which is interpreted in some Soviet quarters as a preliminary to Anglo-Soviet hostilities.

The British consul at Harbin is quoted as saying the operation can mean little more than a threat, and is not serious.

Buenos Aires, May 27 (By A. P.).—The British raid on Soviet House in London and the seizure of various documents had a repercussion here today when police raided various addresses mentioned in the "White Paper" made public yesterday by Premier Baldwin as having been found among the Soviet documents.

A quantity of letters and newspapers in French and Russian were seized and several persons to whom communist propaganda was addressed were arrested. It is believed that nothing serious was found by the police and it is expected that those detained will be freed after an examination.

(By the Associated Press.)

The break in relations between Great Britain and Russia is not expected by President Coolidge to have any effect on trade relations between the United States and Russia.

While the President is making no comment on Great Britain's action, in deference to diplomatic practices, attention was called yesterday at the White House that the American government has not recognized Soviet Russia. Nevertheless, the President feels there is no bar to trade activities between citizens of the United States and Russia or between American business firms and the Russian government.

Green Disapproves Visit Of Labor Group to Russia

(By the Associated Press.)

Expressing disapproval over the proposed visit of an American labor delegation to Russia this summer, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared yesterday that his organization had no connection with the trip being sponsored by Albert Coyle, editor of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Journal, and others.

Conceding the right of individual members of organized labor to visit Russia, Mr. Green said in a formal statement that it should be understood that they speak only for themselves. The Federation of Labor, he added, "not only can not join in any mission to investigate conditions in Russia, but deems any such mission wholly unnecessary."

If the Coyle tour is consummated, the federation president said he planned to notify the officially organized labor organizations in Europe that members of the party "can not be regarded as a labor delegation in the true sense of the word, clothed with authority to speak for American labor and for the American Federation of Labor."

Detroit Seeks Next Convention of G. O. P.

(By the Associated Press.)

Detroit was urged as the meeting place for the next Republican national convention by a delegation which called yesterday on President Coolidge and other party leaders.

Gov. Green of Michigan, who headed the delegation, said the State was prepared to offer $250,000 to meet convention expenses. He also told of the new auditorium now under construction, which would be available as a meeting place. The Michigan delegation also included G. J. DeKema, chairman of the State Republican central committee; Arthur H. Vandenberg, Grand Rapids publisher, and William A. Smith, former senator.

An Enchanting Vacation Land THE BLACK HILLS OF SOUTH DAKOTA

SKIES of Italian blue smile on the cool fragrance of the pine-clad hills and the rushing water of countless streams that make a fisherman's paradise.

Against the might and mystery of the Black Hills, springing from the level plains, America today sees the land of the Sioux chieftains become the camping place of peaceful rest and exhilarating enjoyment.

On the brow of the Black Hills, will ride the pageant of the past, with Borglum's giant figures of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and Roosevelt carved in granite, watching the western plains.

Nine thousand square miles of beauty and healthy climate, comfortable hotels, dude ranches, golf courses, fishing streams in the virgin forests and the great Belle Fourche round-up are items in the glorious attractions there.

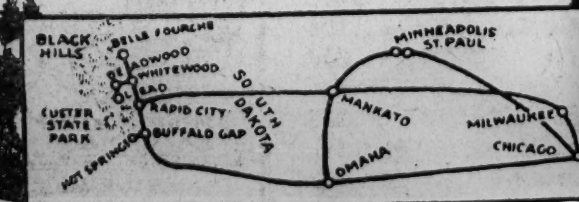

South Dakota invites you to the Black Hills for a perfect summer.

ACACIA MUTUAL CO.
STARTS ON BUILDING
IN EXPANSION PLAN

Construction Started at the Northwest Corner of First Street and Indiana Avenue.

FIRST UNIT OF GROUP
TO BE 10 STORIES HIGH

Georgian Architecture of Structure Shows Influence of Italian Renaissance.

With the excavating completed, construction of the first unit of a group of buildings to house the increasing activities of the Acacia Mutual Life Association, was started yesterday at the northwest corner of First street and Indiana avenue. This project, when completed about a year from now, will represent an investment of $1,500,000, it was estimated.

This first unit will consist of a ten-story, V-shaped building, cut off at the apex 110 feet high, extending approximately 150 feet from Indiana avenue and First street, west. The exterior facades will be all limestone above a low granite base at the sidewalk level. The design is a development of Georgian architecture, showing the influence of the Italian Renaissance, and will be in keeping with the future monument building to be built on the block to the east of the present site. The first three stories above the street form a rusticated base course, which carry a row of Corinthian pilasters above, which will extend five stories. The whole facade will be finished by a massive stone cornice and parapet in which will be contained the ninth and tenth stories.

At the intersection of the streets the apex of the building has been cut off at an angle, forming an elevation approximately 52 feet wide, with an entrance on the street floor to a store accessible from main corridors of the building. A feature of the building is that it has been designed with minimum expense, so it can be converted into an apartment house with stores on the street floor, and the building expanded to cover the entire block front on both thoroughfares. The entire plot runs 206 feet on Indiana avenue, 308 feet on First street and 140 feet on D street.

Two Entrances Planned.
Two entrances, one on Indiana avenue and the other on First street, will lead to a handsomely finished marble floor and walls of genuine Italian travertine, plaster cornice and ornamental ceiling. Four elevators, three passenger and the other for combination freight and passenger service, will insure efficient transportation. Behind the lifts will be a grand staircase leading to the second floor. The construction of the building, on the main floor,

Along the Potomac

Yachting on the Potomac is to be formally opened today, when the fleet of the Capital Yacht Club will draw the largest fleet, observation precisely that of the Capital Yacht Club, of New York City. Frank Arnow, the owner, is aboard with a party of guests. Nivarna is 65 feet long in a cruise at a cruising speed of about 11 miles an hour by two 75-horsepower Speedway engines. There are five in her crew. After an inland holiday in the Potomac, Nivarna will return to New York, completing an early spring cruise.

Marquesa, owned by Henry D. Whitton, president of the Union Sulphur Co., of New York City, left Washington Thursday morning for New York. Marquesa is one of the new type 80-foot yachts being built by the New York Yacht & Engine Co., and was one of the most beautiful boats to visit here this season. Twin Twentieth century 100-horsepower engines give the craft a cruising speed of about 11 knots, and it is so designed to accommodate 12 owner and five guests, with crew's quarters for six. According to her captain, H. Haroldson, Marquesa has spent some time visiting between the Potomac and New York. The craft flies the pennants of the New York, Easton and Larchmont Yacht clubs.

An addition to Washington's fast speed boats has been made with the launch of a 35-foot Chevrolet boat by William S. Corby, retired member of the Corby Baking Co. The craft has been named Jayce II, and is the latest member of the Corby Baking Co. fleet. A 500-horsepower Liberty motor drives the boat at a speed of between 50 and 55 miles an hour. According to B. G. Sackett, who is in charge of the boat, it is Mr. Corby's plan to take Jayce II north with him in the early part of July.

Work has been rushed in putting the final touches on the majority of the craft in the Corinthian Basin, preparatory to their departure for the week-end. Among the many who plan to spend the holiday on the water are R. B. Rives, who owns Virginia, a 45-foot bridge deck C. R. Rives, E. C. Baltz, treasurer of the Corinthian Yacht Club, proud master of Fifty-Fifty, a beautiful craft, and J. W. McLaflerty, who purchased Fifty and sailed it from New York last summer.

Arthur Segren, president of the Capital Filling Station, is having his 40-foot cruiser, Miss Washington, made ready for the season. The boat was bought by Mr. Segren last year from the Coburn Marine Construction Co. of Annapolis.

Spray, a 56-foot yacht owned by O. R. Robey, is on the way to the Corinthian Yacht Basin for a thorough scraping and repainting. E. W. Briggs' 58-foot yacht, Sweetheart, is being put into commission in time for a cruise over Memorial Day. This boat is powered with twin Standards and cruises at about 12 knots.

Did you hear
Maj. H. A. DARGUE
Leader of the U. S. Army
Pan-American Flight?

At a luncheon at the Southern Hotel, Major Dargue, of the U. S. Army Air Service, addressed the Baltimore Association of Commerce. In speaking of the happenings on the Pan-American Goodwill Flight, of which he was the Commanding Officer, he paid an exceptional compliment to AMOCO-GAS and AMOCO Motor Oil.

Here's what he said about AMOCO Products

"I have been asked many times how in the world we solved our fuel problem. This was very simply answered for us by the American Oil Company of Baltimore, which supplied to us AMOCO-GAS and AMOCO Motor Oil for our entire trip. There was no more pleasing sight than to see even before we landed, those big green drums that spelled success for each leg of our trip. We soon learned of the absolute dependability of AMOCO Products. This fuel gave us extra power for our take-offs and was particularly valuable in emergencies. Its 100% performance is another great tribute to American products."

The Housekeeper

THE friends of this column will hold up their hands in horror when they see the menu that is to follow calling for corned beef on a Saturday—not that I wonder very much—but I have a reason. (But in spite of the reason I shall suggest an alternate meat dish.)

Corned beef, homely as it sounds, is one of the nonheating meats and one that should be used during the summer months. Brisket of corned beef properly seasoned and cooked is one of the most delicious meats that can be sliced and used cold, and corned beef is a good dish served hot, and not one that need have any apology attached to it. Frankly, the cabbage is the drawback to cooked corned beef because of the odor attendant upon its cooking. We do not cook cabbage with our corned beef, unless we really wish to have it in the old-fashioned way, and we treat corned beef as though it were any of the other cuts of meat that are used for slow cooking and subsequent cold cuts.

For this cut of meat nothing is better than a fireless cooker if we possess one, and on Saturday we may place our meat in the cell with a generous supply of vegetables to give it flavor while cooking, and either serve it warm the night it is cooked, with mustard sauce and an accompanying dish of cabbage cooked in our own way of cabbage delicious, or we may just set the piece of beef aside to cool and then use it as a cold meat for Sunday night supper, or for lunch or for sandwiches when the spirit moves us to a bite between meals. (These sandwiches are excellent for picnic use.) We frequently buy a ham to "have something in the house to use for cold meat." We are delighted to have cold roast beef left over that we may have something cold and easy to serve. Why not corned beef, which is inexpensive, easy to prepare and good to eat, in spite of the somewhat black eye of its reputation?

Here, then, having explained our platform, is a menu that calls for cooking a piece of brisket of corned beef, if we like we may substitute for this meat roast lamb or beef or a baked chicken pie. We shall have with our corned beef a side dish of cabbage delicious, which, we all recall, is cabbage chopped very finely and cooked in boiling salted water to which a pinch of soda has been added for just eight minutes. Not any longer than eight minutes, remember.

MENU.

Chilled Halves of Canteloupe
Celery Radishes
Brisket of Corned Beef
With Vegetables
Buttered New Potatoes
Lettuce and Cucumber Salad
Baking Powder Biscuit
Strawberry Fluff
Coffee

I need not repeat our details of cooking corned beef, I am sure. We merely cut up onions, carrots, turnip and celery with the beef, and cook the whole at a low temperature until the meat is thoroughly tender. We may either throw away the vegetables, which have been cooked to a pulp without a doubt, or serve them if there is anything left to serve. We cover the meat with water for cooking, of course—and with cold water—not hot. A piece of corned beef that has been cooked five hours is not overcooked; that is, unless it is a very small piece of meat. We shall require the recipe for strawberry fluff, and then we shall have space at least for one of the summer salads of which we spoke on Thursday last.

Strawberry Fluff.

Cut three boxes of marshmallows into small pieces and add to the pieces one can of sliced pineapple chopped or cut up very fine (but not grated), one cup of strawberries cut in fourths or halves as desired. Add one banana cut in small—very small—pieces and pieces of maraschino cherries to give color to the whole and, of course, too, a bit of their distinctive flavor. Add a third of a cup of walnut meats broken in small pieces and put these ingredients into a pint of cream that has been whipped stiff. Place on the ice for at least eight hours and serve in sherbert glasses with slices of a white cake that is not frosted. This is a dessert very like the dessert we gave over the radio on Tuesday, except that it has a different set of fruits as ingredients and has, therefore, a decidedly different flavor.

Summer Salad Recipe.

Fruit salad with honey salad dressing. (By Mrs. C. E. F.)
3 Oranges, cut in pieces.
1 Can white cherries, stoned.
Mix fruit and chill.

Honey Salad Dressing.

Yolks of 3 eggs, beaten.
½ Cup strained honey.
½ Cup lemon juice.
1 Grated lemon rind.
1 Tablespoon sugar.
Mix all ingredients and cook in double boiler until like thick cream. (This will keep for weeks if cold.) Add two generous tablespoons of above salad dressing to ½ pint of whipped cream and serve on the mixed fruit. More or less of the dressing may be added to the cream to suit the taste.

A friend has written to ask about Peter, the wire-haired fox-terrier, whose loss I advertised in the lost and found column of our paper. Peter is found. Mrs. S. I am very happy to be able to say, for any dog that is a member of a household is dear and dear to the hearts of the persons on whom he so staunchly depends. Other friends have asked about Peter, so may I explain about him? He was visiting the family of friends who share him with me, and he dashed out across the street to follow his hostess, who was about to drive away in a car standing on the far side of the street. He sees poorly and a passing car struck him in the head and tossed him aside, and the fact that it did lose him undoubtedly saved his life. He was hurt and stunned, and he gathered his small person together and made off down the street, probably with no least idea what it was all about. His hostess, who saw the thing happen, frantically searched for hours, and with her numbers of persons searched California street from one end to the other. At last they found him lying in a dense underbrush in a field, badly shaken, badly frightened and very stiff and sore, but otherwise intact. He has visited a doctor and been made much over by a number of persons glad to have him back and is at home with me now seemingly none the worse for his night-mare. But to me the amazing thing connected with the episode is the attitude of the driver of the car that struck this little white dog. It was a woman, and she not so much as slowed her car to see whether or not she had killed him. True enough, it was only a dog, but I wonder somehow whether or not the same instinct to run away would have been uppermost had the dog been a little younger, dashing out into the street, as they so often do. It is difficult to realize that a woman could hit any living thing and then vanish without so much as a backward glance. Thank you all for your interest in Peter—he would thank you if he could.

Health Head Plans
Survey of Alleys

Health officer William C. Fowler yesterday announced plans to begin a sanitary survey of Washington alleys June 15. Dr. Fowler said that his survey had no connection with the Court of Appeals' decision Thursday, making the alley dwelling law practically inoperative, but that he periodically caused similar surveys.

The last such investigation was made two years ago, at which time 1,000 cases were reported as meriting correction. Notices to abate nuisances were sent to 298 owners of alley houses. Similar notices to the number of 397 were sent to occupants of such buildings.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND THE CHARACTERS

Christine Farr, pretty, popular, just 18, is devoted to the commencement exercises of Belgrave University by the inseparable friends of her childhood, both of whom are in love with her. They are:

Harvey Blanton, handsome, brilliant, aggressive, and his charm and roommates.

Lewis Hayer, grave, dependable, doggedly determined to make his mark in the field of chemical experimentation.

Harvey proposes to her, and is accepted, so Lewis goes away without telling her he loves her, on the eve of the wedding of Christine and Harvey.

A year later their son is born. Christine has returned to town, meanwhile, and is working for the firm which employs Harvey. He tells her he has discovered a chemical formula of great industrial value. Harvey undertakes to get his uncle, the president of the company, to put it across.

Some time after the second child, Harvey announces that he has been taken into the firm following his discovery of a formula for making rubber. Lewis, meanwhile, has put his job, his project being a failure, and he goes away.

With money from Harvey's product, the Blantons build a beautiful home. Christine has every luxury, but she is happy only with her children. She finds that Harvey's friends are strangers to her, with Lewis reveals to her that the old friendship between him and Harvey has been broken.

A friend, who is disgusted by Christine's complete absorption in her children, persuades her to liquidate her interests. Christine's first venture is to publish a little book of fairy tales.

Then she learns that Harvey is going a fast pace. In his pocket she finds a love letter.

She goes to her parents, but they refuse to receive her. She tries to earn a living. She makes her home with a middle-aged cousin, Anna Morison.

After weeks of effort, she gets a job as a dancer in a cheap cabaret. Her friends are exhausted, and she has no choice.

CHAPTER XXI.

It was with fear and trembling that Christine approached her first night as a dancer in the Paradise restaurant.

Her trysting having proved satisfactory—an uninspiring tryst in the empty restaurant in daylight—she was engaged to appear for two shows nightly, one at a late dinner hour and another for the after-theater patrons.

Cousin Anna had accepted the news of her engagement with her usual half-amused tolerance. She said:

"Well, even that sort of a job is better than none, Chris. Do your darndest for Washington Heights."

She left off her painting and helped Christine out away the graceful train of a white satin evening gown heavily decorated with pearls and brilliants.

"You are in luck to have this frock," she said. "It will look well in the spotlight."

But Christine chose to dance without spotlight, and Meyer Castleber, realizing the freshness and charm of her without the makeup which pleased the faces of his other performers, indulged the whim.

There was nothing remarkable about her dances. She was merely graceful and lithe, but her personality, her youth and pettiness, her freshness and charm, were a novelty in the place. She captivated her audience.

Meyer Castleber, however, added the final touch to one of the most unusual performances given in his restaurant by having a waiter hand up to her, when she took her bow, a great armful of red roses. She looked far more like a schoolgirl than a dancer in a cheap cabaret, despite the brevity of her glittering gown.

Rumors sprang up here and there that some well-known society beauty, with a yearning for the stage, had seized upon this way of breaking into the spotlight.

This was the very effect that Meyer Castleber wished to produce. Tongues were buzzing, rumors sprang up here and there that some well-known society beauty, with a yearning for the stage, had seized upon this way of breaking into the spotlight.

People went away talking, and the masculine element was distinctly intrigued and hopeful.

"I guess you'll do right," Castleber told Christine, with evident satisfaction, when she came in from the dingy little room where she dressed with two other nervous, nervous voices stabbed her sensitive soul.

She went out into the streets of Manhattan, thrilling with pride over her accomplishment, meager and sordid as it was. At least, it was a first step toward financial independence. The money she earned would be honestly earned, not stolen from a trusting friend.

She hurried along the streets to the subway. It was the first time she had been alone at night in New York.

Several times men passed her, sidling up to her, and murmuring something, but she only increased her pace.

Message is also good for making the ankles more shapely. Form a bracelet around the ankle with the thumb and third finger of each hand, and work back and forth.

Dear Viola Paris: What would you advise to remove fever-blister scars? I have on my upper lip two that have been there for months. I am 4 feet 9 inches tall and weigh 104 pounds. I am of small bone structure. Am overweight? Will you please suggest a method for reducing the ankles? Will exercise make one bend a lot help to reduce the hips?

Answer—The scars should go away of their own accord. I can not suggest any means other than keeping the lips softened with a soothing emollient, such as a mentholated salve. You seem to be a little overweight. Between 90 and 96 pounds would be better. If you are very young, however, do not be anxious, as the weight will probably adjust itself as you grow. For reducing the ankles, see the other replies printed today. Yes, bending exercises will help reduce the hips. Let some of them be floor exercises.

(Copyright, 1927.)

NOW, I'LL ASK ONE!

Everybody's doing it! Get in the swim. Test your own knowledge, and that of your friends. It is a delightful game and is educational at the same time. Printed below are ten questions. If any of them stump you, you will find the answers on the last page.

QUESTIONS.

1. What two brothers living in Dayton, Ohio, revolutionized air travel?
2. What is meant by the phrase "au revoir"?
3. What is the difference between "mortgagee" and "mortgagor"?
4. Who is known as the Bard of Avon?
5. Who wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner"?
6. From what is the following quotation taken:
"I dare do all that may become a man;
Who dares do more, is none."
7. In what part of a stable was Jesus born?
8. What was the purpose of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation?
9. Would a piece of iron float on mercury?
10. What church was founded by Brigham Young?

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

INSTINCTIVE POLITENESS

I OFTEN have occasion to criticize the manners of the rather self-centered, boorish crowds in the streets and in the public conveyances, but today I had a charming example of kindness—that consideration for others which is at the back of all civility.

I was about to go down the subway steps, and as I am always finding fault with people who block up the entrance or stop on the stairs to find change, I began to look for mine in the street.

I was annoyed to find I had none; and while I was disentangling some dollar bills one from another a lively young man came along and pushed them for me in two directions at once.

I caught up one lot, but a single bill blew away. A boy about 16, carrying a heavy bundle of papers or books on his shoulder, turned out of his way and, in spite of his encumbered condition, stooped and picked it up for me.

I was so touched that I should like to have offered it to him, but somehow the way he looked made me think he might not like it. And I thanked him as warmly as I could and went on.

But how many of us have that spontaneous courtesy and helpfulness? It is a sort of unconscious mental urge toward the kind of action that shows itself instinctively. I'm sure lots of people are kinder than they look, but they are dull—slow in the uptake—and trained to use their senses quickly and easily. I've often seen guards in the subway dash the carriage doors without looking to see who was getting out or in, and when a passenger's arm or ankle has been almost or even quite caught their faces, let alone a word of regret sounded from the place where they kept their voices, and yet the public is supposed to be in their care. I often wonder how they can be so callous.

"Dear God, help me always to be worthy," she prayed.

Then, very silently, she undressed in the darkness and slipped into the hard bed, bed-divan that she shared with Cousin Anna.

New Cotton Velvets In Snakeskin Design

Vienna, Czechoslovakian manufacturers are taking the lead in production of new cotton velvets printed in snakeskin design. Many bags and shoes are being made here of this material, which is just as effective an imitation as more expensive fabrics and is much cheaper.

Imitation baby calf is another product of the cotton manufacturers. Much of the belt, bag and shoe material of this nature comes from Czechoslovakia.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Freeze the Gossip.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I am a young married woman 21 years old and have been married just a year. I love my husband dearly, but here is my problem. Before he married me he was pretty wild, would drink and go on wild rides, necking parties, etc. He has told me considerable things about the girls he has been with. This nearly breaks my heart to think of it.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SELF-PITY.
Forget yourself! Brave out the passing pain!
Self-pity is a folly of the brain.
Talk not your little woes, but march along.

The man is doomed who magnifies his own
All men are burden-bearers. With your Stand up and try to carry them alone.
Have pity for your neighbors in their
But for yourself be slow to ask relief.
The little stings and hurts will larger grow.

Strength fades if weakness you prefer to show.
Who sits in gloom when little pleasures cease
Will but his weight of misery increase.
Who thinks of self in all that comes and goes

Has a fool's way of measuring his woes.
Who suffers lives! His very pangs reveal
The pains the dead would gladly live to feel.

Think not injustice brings you to despair.
All men on earth some crosses have to bear.

So be not sorry for yourself nor whine
Because your mornings are not always fine.
Stand up and live, content to play
your part.

And hide 'neath courage every ache
and smart.
Dwell not in thought too long upon
The little care through fretting larger grows.

There isn't a day that goes by but it's on my mind. I am sure that I am quite certain if they even found themselves fairly launched upon the topic they would discover themselves discussing the morrow's weather instead, and grateful for the presence of mind that permitted the lightning change. There are certain indiscretions quite as grievous as those the gossip level in. And these include such discussions as your letter describes. You must meet these as you would any other offense.

Your husband has assured you that these people live. As his wife you must develop enough dignity to show that you believe him. Do not argue with the mob over your husband's morals.

To any one who is low enough to approach you on the subject simply say "I do not care to discuss this with you." Say it firmly—and then stop. It is a "snub" few will forget.

And in your home life make no reference to the past. Stop living in the shadow of your husband's morals.

Discard such of your acquaintances as tend to keep this thing blazing. You should not care to have as friends such victims of depravity. So just exclude them. Live a more personal life with your husband. See less of the town gossips and more of the man you love. Presently you will hardly recall these most exasperating experiences. You are not the first wife who has had to freeze a gossip with a glance. But it can be done, and you can do it. And select your few worth-while friends from those who know just when the deceptions are being violated. Keep all others at a distance and live your life in joy that you are young, and well, and married, and loved.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

ABOUT REDUCING THE ANKLES

DEAR VIOLA PARIS: Will you please tell how to reduce large legs? Would a rubber stocking be a help?

Answer—First of all, if you are generally overweight, it is absolutely necessary to bring the weight to normal. This alone will often have wonderfully beautifying effect on the various parts of the body. If it is only the legs that are too large, then the remedy lies in exercise and massage. Rubber stockings have had results, but I do not particularly recommend them. I think you would find them unpleasant. The logical method of bringing up the circulation and reducing the fatty tissue by friction and hard exercise is much the most satisfactory method. The leg is one part of the body on which you can administer self-massage. As for exercise, choose a few and do them regularly and vigorously at night and morning. The leg squat, the bicycle exercise, the pendulum, and kicking in place and rope skipping are good. And dancing in almost any form is exceedingly helpful.

Dear Viola Paris: Please tell me a way to reduce the muscles of the calves of the legs. They are very noticeable.

Answer—Read my reply to H. E. W. above. Exercise is the best remedy, but it should not be exercise that strains these muscles. Hard massage would also be advisable.

Answer to "Wondering Marjorie": See replies above.

Answer "Hopeful": I think you will be helped by reading my reply to H. E. W. The exercises that you have already done are very good to reduce the ankles and make the legs more shapely. But you must keep them up, and not expect results too soon. Here are a few more suggestions:

1. Rotate each foot at the angle. This can be easily done whenever convenient, when you are sitting or lying down. The movement should be a circle from the inner side out.

2. Stand with the back against a chair or similar support. Bend one knee, bringing it up and forward, and raise the left foot backward. Repeat several times, then reverse.

3. Practice the rocking dance step. Hold the weight on the left foot, raising the right foot forward. Jump back, landing on the right foot and raising the left foot backward. Repeat several times, then reverse.

4. Stand with the feet together. Move the whole body in a circle, trying to rotate from the ankle joints.

Massage is also good for making the ankles more shapely. Form a bracelet around the ankle with the thumb and third finger of each hand, and work back and forth.

Dear Viola Paris: What would you advise to remove fever-blister scars? I have on my upper lip two that have been there for months. I am 4 feet 9 inches tall and weigh 104 pounds. I am of small bone structure. Am overweight? Will you please suggest a method for reducing the ankles? Will exercise make one bend a lot help to reduce the hips?

Answer—The scars should go away of their own accord. I can not suggest any means other than keeping the lips softened with a soothing emollient, such as a mentholated salve. You seem to be a little overweight. Between 90 and 96 pounds would be better. If you are very young, however, do not be anxious, as the weight will probably adjust itself as you grow. For reducing the ankles, see the other replies printed today. Yes, bending exercises will help reduce the hips. Let some of them be floor exercises.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHAT THE DOCTORS ARE DOING FOR PARETICS.

THE people who have friends suffering from paretic paralysis are often rest satisfied that something is being done by the physicians in charge.

Gen. Gorgas' book is that which tells the story of the death of a famous French general in his stable, and used to infect persons with yellow fever in their experiments to find a way to control that disease.

The "ague" treatment of general paretics is used in connection with the typhoid treatment. This is not the first successful use of an infection to cure a disease. There is nothing so good for melancholia as a severe illness. A severe case of erysipelas is very likely to cure melancholia. This information led to infection with streptococci as a means of curing some mental derangements of the depressive type.

DOGS SLEEPING WITH HUMANS.

Mrs. A. B. writes: Will you kindly discuss in your column the practice of allowing a well-bathed dog to sleep in the same bed with a human being? I know of people, particularly people, too, who do this, apparently without harm to either dog or man. In most cases the dogs are toy Boston, who make great pets, and seem to discover early in their lives that a bed is about the most desirable place for little aristocrats to rest. The dogs I refer to sleep on top of the bed clothing in every case, never directly next to the person, and the rooms are well ventilated. One little boy of 10 sleeps every night with his "pal" wound in a circle of the bed clothing, however, and both of them seem to be very healthy and extremely contented.

REPLY.

If the dog is kept clean and free from disease I presume it is safe enough. Don't forget the danger of catching worms of one sort or another.

HOYT CHECKS NATS, 5-0, AFTER YANKS LOSE FIRST; TECH WINS SCHOLASTIC TRACK TITLE BY 2 POINTS

Eastern High Beaten Out In Meet

Javelin Throw, Last Event, Decides the Championship.

Central and Western Trail; McDonald Sets Record.

By ARTHUR A. HEYWOOD.

WITH a large crowd milling about the official scorers and on the field and with Eastern leading Tech, 40 to 38, the Manual Trainers came through with a second and third place in the javelin, the last event, to defeat Eastern, 42-40, and win for the fourth consecutive year, the annual high track meet, held at Central Stadium yesterday. Central was third with 35 points, while Western scored 33. Coach Rath and his plucky lads from Eastern, while doped as a threat this year were not expected to show such amazing strength. Eastern raised havoc with Central in the dashes, winning the 100 and 200. Its relay team pulled the surprise of the meet to down Tech for the first time in five years in that event, with Eastern also taking the mile and half mile. One good weight man would have pulled Eastern through to victory.

While the meet was the hardest fought and the most exciting for a number of years, only one record was smashed.

Henry McDonald, of Tech, who incidentally was the high-point scorer, with a total of 12, wrote a new record in the books with a 440-yard dash.

THE POINT SCORE

Jump of 11 feet 1 inch in the pole vault. The old record of 11 feet was held jointly. Raymond S. Garber, of Western, made the mark in 1924, and Courtney Suter duplicating the performance for Central last year.

McDonald competed in four events, placing first in the shot put and pole vault, and third in the discus and javelin. Followers of Eastern contended that an old tradition or unwritten law had existed for years in the high schools which stated that no man could compete in more than three events. G. Harris White, athletic director to all the schools, declared, however, that he knew of no such ruling.

The outstanding event of the entire meet was the mile relay in which Central Tech and Eastern competed. Tech, winner of this event for five straight years, had Bailey, Shaw, Havell and Blackstone running, was ruled a heavy favorite, but the Eastern team, composed of Talbert, Entwistle, McGlathery and Clow, ran a beautiful race to win.

Entwistle, the second man for Eastern, who previously had won the half-mile, turned his quarter-

Miss Orcutt Retains New York Golf Title

New York, May 27 (By A. P.).—Miss Maureen Orcutt, of White Beaches, N. J., successfully defended her metropolitan women's golf championship today by defeating Miss Helen Seitz, of Gedyne Farms, 8 up and 7 to play in the 36-hole final over the Engineer Club course.

Johnson to Oppose Red Sox Here Monday in First Test

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Unless Manager Burky Harris changes his mind overnight, Walter Johnson will not pitch in this series against the Yankees, his first 1927 appearance on the mound being scheduled in Washington in one of the games in the Decoration Day double-header against the Red Sox.

Johnson came here expecting to participate in the Yankee series. He says he is ready. Harris gave no reason for his change in plans, although the shift was probably made because of the Yankees' fondness for fast ball pitching.

Another double-header is scheduled with the Huggmen here tomorrow. For these games Hollis Thurston is the only Nat finger told to be ready, the

Stanford Leading in Meet; Georgetown Star Beaten

Maroney's Record Javelin Toss Not Allowed. Georgetown Qualifies 4 Athletes. Burgess 6th in 440 Trial.

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, May 27 (By A. P.).—Stanford's brawny band of athletes got off to a flying start today in the opening skirmish of their fight to win the intercollegiate A. A. A. track and field championships. In spite of the shock of having their crack quarter-mile, Emerson Spencer, eliminated by Eastern rivals, the Cardinals asserted their might in the field events and carried off fourteen qualifying places, enough to lead the field by a substantial margin in trials that paved the way for the final tests tomorrow.

Southern California's sturdy band, defending the championship they have held for two successive years, finished second in the list with ten qualifiers, thus strengthening the prospect that the main battle tomorrow will be fought out between the Trojans and Cardinals with no Eastern school conceded even an outside chance of triumph.

Dartmouth, coming through with unexpected and fairly well-balanced strength, led the Eastern forces by placing nine qualifiers, but Yale and Penn State, each with eight places, figured to lead the field by a substantial margin in trials that paved the way for the final tests tomorrow.

Of the two far Western contenders, Stanford remained the favorite to stand to dethrone Southern California. Although hard hit by Spencer's defeat, the Cardinals made the strongest showing of any contender in the field events. Their qualifiers were distributed in eight events altogether. Six of these were in the field, while Nichols and West, hurdlers, displayed enough class to indicate they probably will add considerably to the Cardinal score over the high and low sticks.

Michigan State, in its first bid for A. A. A. honors, made a flashy showing in the dashes, chiefly through the fine work of Capt. Fred Alderman in the furlong and quarter mile. The team landed five qualifying places, the same number as California, which has dropped out of its championship form of 1921-23.

Of the series of upsets that featured today's elimination, the quarter-mile provided the most startling.

Voigt Reaches Semifinal Round

Standifer, Houghton and Hufty Also Win at Indian Spring.

Peacock Brothers in Thrilling 19-Hole Encounter.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

AFTER many strenuous battles in the championship fight of the Indian Spring golf tournament, including three which were decided upon the home green, the semifinal rounds will be fought out this morning between George J. Voigt, Bannockburn, and Guy M. Standifer, Columbia, in the upper bracket, and Page Hufty, Congressional, against A. L. Houghton, Manor, in the lower half. The elimination of Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia; Harry G. Pitt, Manor, and John C. Shorey, Argyle, all of whom have been semifinalists in local tournaments, was the feature of the day.

Voigt had no difficulty in trouncing his forenoon opponent, 1-15 E. Barry, Indian Spring, by the decisive margin of 7 up and 6 to play, although when it is stated that he played twelve consecutive holes in 48 strokes, or even 48, every golfer will agree that his golf was invincible.

In the afternoon, playing against Stevinson, he did not triumph so easily. In fact, with mistake made by both contestants, the match was all even at the turn, each having won two holes and halving the remaining five.

With the tenth hole in par 4s, the crucial point of the match came on the eleventh hole, when Voigt, with an underapproach, caught the side of the trap guarding the green. This was Stevinson's opportunity to become 1 up, but in his anxiety to reach the green he played too strongly and his ball ran far over into the rough so that the hole was halved in 36.

After this Stevinson found no loophole in Voigt's game. When Voigt won the twelfth in par, Stevinson had missed his drive, and when Voigt had won the thirteenth and fourteenth successive holes, as against Stevinson's pars, it needed only the fifteenth hole to win the match.

Thomas, of White Sox, Pitches 8th Victory

Detroit, Mich., May 27 (By A. P.).—Alphonse Thomas held Detroit to five hits today, and the Chicago White Sox won their fifth successive game, thereby climbing a step closer to the leading Yankees. The score was 3-1.

In winning his eighth victory of the season, Thomas delivered a shut-out, as the only Tiger run resulted directly from McCurdy's wild throw. Thomas has allowed only one earned run in his last six outings.

Lindbergh A. C. to Make Debut Here Tomorrow

Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh has been given the highest honor possible for the Washington sandlots to bestow. The great American flier takes a place in the sandlot hall of fame along with Ruth, Cobb, Speaker, Johnson, Hornsby, Kael, Judge, Lisenbee and other celebrities as one who has an insect baseball team named for him.

The Lindbergh A. C. nine is in the field. Tomorrow it plays the Greyhounds on the Monument Grounds at 3 o'clock.

Members of the team are hopeful that the history-making aviator will find time while in the city to see his namesake club in action.

Intercity Semipro In Debut Tomorrow

The Georgetown A. C. nine, one of Washington's two entries, will open the local end of the Intercity Semipro League tomorrow, meeting the Hampden Athletic Club in the first game of the season, on the Georgetown Hollow Field at 3 o'clock.

The Shamrocks, the other District contender, will be facing the Bethlehem Steel Co. nine on the latter's Sparrows Point Field near Baltimore.

The two Annapolis teams, Regina Mercedes and Eastport, are scheduled to battle on the Eastport diamond.

SENATES PLAY TWO GAMES.

The Senate Juniors will engage in two games over the week-end, meeting the Smithfields on Sunday and the Kensington nine on Monday. The games will probably be played on the Monument grounds.

Johnny Farrell's Long Putt Wins New York Golf Title

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 27 (A. P.).—Johnny Farrell, the curly haired Adonis from the Quaker Run Club, today won the twentieth annual Metropolitan open golf championship with a card of 268 for 72 holes. He wrested the prize from Bobby Jones, who had won the title in 1926, by holing a beautiful 15-foot putt on the very last hole, while a gallery of more than 500 gazed as Bobby Crickshank, the wee Scot, missed a chance for a tie by failing to hole out from only 6 feet away.

The entire crowd assembled at the Wyckoff Country Club course for the final, went around with Farrell and Crickshank, the two leaders were playing together, with William Burke, of Greenwich.

The onlookers saw Crickshank come through one stroke ahead at the end of the morning 18, pick up another stroke in the first nine of the afternoon, and still another on the tenth, and then go to pieces on the 220-yard sixteenth, par for which he is three. Farrell, in winning the championship, conquered fog, rain and a stiff wind in

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Unless Manager Burky Harris changes his mind overnight, Walter Johnson will not pitch in this series against the Yankees, his first 1927 appearance on the mound being scheduled in Washington in one of the games in the Decoration Day double-header against the Red Sox.

Johnson came here expecting to participate in the Yankee series. He says he is ready. Harris gave no reason for his change in plans, although the shift was probably made because of the Yankees' fondness for fast ball pitching.

Another double-header is scheduled with the Huggmen here tomorrow. For these games Hollis Thurston is the only Nat finger told to be ready, the

Huggmen Bow To Lisenbee In Opener

Washington Recruit Allows 4 Hits in 7-2 Victory.

Speaker Steals Home; Error by Rigney Aids N. Y.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Brilliant pitching decided both games of the double-header between the Nationals and Yankees here this afternoon. In the opening contest, Horace Lisenbee granted but four hits and the Nats won, 7 to 2, while Waite Hoyt was equally effective for the Yankees in the nightcap and his team was the victor, 1 to 0.

In the first game, the veteran southpaw, Herb Pennock, seemed to have just what the Nats liked and he was given his first licking of the season, retiring under fire in the fourth. Sensational stops by Harris and Rigney and a double steal by Speaker and Judge, with the former scoring, featured this contest.

Gehrig employed the second game for another run, but Speaker, who retired in the current home run race, knotting the count at eleven by hitting for the circuit in the fifth inning. Bluege made several fine fielding contributions in this contest. Irving Hadley started on the hill for the Nats and Garland Braxton finished.

With Lisenbee hurling effectively in the opener, the Yankees never had a chance, a condition which might have been different had Manager Huggins used his relief pitcher first. For Pignas, who relieved Pennock in round four, was just as effective as the Nat rookie. But the damage had been done by the time he broke into the line-up.

The Huggmen broke the ice in the first inning when they came to run from Combs' scratch hit, a theft, and Gehrig's real hit. In the fourth, a walk and Gehrig's double were good for another run, but the Yankees only threatened once thereafter—in the ninth when Ruth singled and Gehrig walked with one down. Lisenbee then tightened his belt a notch and forced Meusel to roll to judge and fanned Lazerri.

Of Washington's seven runs were scored in the first four rounds. Judge's single, a hit batsman, and Rigney's double allowed the Nats to tie the score in the second inning, and in the next stanza they hopped on Pennock's slants for enough runs to win the game, as things turned out.

With one out in the third, Speaker, Goslin and Judge singled, Ruel doubled and Rigney walked. Although these happenings came in rapid order, they netted only two runs. Bluege counting a third with a sacrifice fly with the sacks loaded.

Round four netted the Nats three more runs. Singles by Harris and Judge, a double by Speaker, and a run counted for one run. Speaker's error gave Judge life and sent Speaker to third, and Speaker scored on a nobby double steal. The third run resulted when Koenig first muffed Ruel's liner and then pegged wildly past first.

Pennock retired by request at this stage and Pignas took up the mound burden. He granted but one bingle to the Yankees in the fifth, but the Nats won, 7 to 2, while Waite Hoyt was equally effective for the Yankees in the nightcap and his team was the victor, 1 to 0.

RICKARD

Former King Maintaining Silence

Promoter to Proceed With Tunney-Sharkey Match.

To Contest Signing of Paulino and Wills by Fugazy.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 27. Unless Jack Dempsey writes his acceptance of the terms offered by Rickard for a fight with Jack Sharkey within the next few days, Rickard will proceed on the presumption that the former heavyweight champion is through with boxing and will sign the Lithuanian linguist to battle Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight title the latter part of September.

Rickard said today he wired Dempsey a definite offer to meet Sharkey the day after the latter bowed over Jimmy Maloney and that Jack promised he would send back his signed contract within ten days. That time is nearly up and a word has been heard from the sometime Manassa mauler. Rickard is about as restless as a fly in a baker's window waiting for Jack to call his next shot.

While marking time in the Dempsey matter Tex is girding his loins for a fight to the finish with Signor Humbert F. Fugazy who, he charges, alienated the affections of Paulino Uzcudun by signing the Spaniard to fight Harry Wills. The rival promoters will square off before the boxing commissioners at next Tuesday's meeting.

Rickard is planning to solidify his position somewhat by signing Jack Delaney to a contract to fight Michael McGuire for the world's light-heavyweight title. McGuire is expected to make a new deal on the projected Delaney-Paulino fight which was tossed into the discard a few days back.
